

The burden of providing clean water rests with community water systems, but not all systems have the capacity to monitor for, let alone provide, clean and safe drinking water.

These systems are often “hidden” from the state, and are de facto excluded from assistance programs.